

CIL entered a three man team for the 23rd annual JP Morgan Chase Corporate Challenge in London's Battersea Park on 9th July.

The JPMorgan Chase Corporate Challenge is a world-wide series of 5.6km running events open to groups of employees from organisations within the business and public sectors. It encourages company spirit and teamwork and promotes fitness in the workplace as well as providing a platform to raise money for charity.

Each year the JPMorgan Chase Foundation makes a donation for each entry in the Corporate Challenge Series to a worthy charity.

Captaining our team for the second year was Liam McGuinness, fresh from having run the London Marathon three months earlier. Liam was ably joined by Jon Whiteman and Sam Heslop, two other veterans from the previous year's event.
